

RUSSIANS DRIVEN
BACK IN A LARGE SCALE OFFENSIVE

Repeated Onslaughts During Night Prove of Little Avail

TO ORIGINAL PUSH

Finnish Counter - Offensive Designed to Frustrate Cutting Off Country.

By Peter de Hemmer Gudme (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HELSINKI, Feb. 1.—Russian troops in the far Northern front, after weeks of comparative inactivity, today revived a large scale offensive, but in repeated onslaughts during the night and morning were driven back.

A Finnish counter-offensive designed to frustrate the Soviet attempt to cut Finland off from Norway, pushed the Red fighters back to their original push.

Near Petsamo, 20 Russian planes, a large number of tanks and heavy artillery, were used without avail in the attacks.

Pierce fighting, with the Soviet taking initiative, also was reported from the Salla and Lake Ladoga fronts.

Three Russian offensives were made as Stockholm reports revealed that the Russian high command in the Leningrad military district sent false reports of victories to the Kremlin.

As a result, it was asserted Dictator Stalin, Premier Molotov and War Commissar Voroshilov went to the front for a personal inspection. Stalin, these accounts said, first became aware of true conditions on the Finnish fronts through Swedish newspapers, and since then has ordered all editions of Swedish newspapers sent to Moscow, where he reads them himself.

Significantly, the Red army official newspaper, Red Star, has started a campaign violently criticizing leadership of the Finnish campaign and demanded that steps be taken to improve the soldiers' winter equipment and to train officers in the methods of winter warfare.

C. L. Cadwallader Dies
At Neshaminy Falls Home

NESHAMINY FALLS, Feb. 1.—Unable to remain at his employment on a WPA project Monday morning after taking co-workers to the site in South Langhorne, Charles L. Cadwallader returned to his home on Slies avenue, ill with pneumonia. His condition gradually grew worse, death occurring yesterday.

Mr. Cadwallader, who was in his 58th year, was the husband of Matilda Cadwallader. He was the son of William and Dora Garrett Cadwallader, late of Rushland. In addition to his wife he leaves two daughters, Miss Mabel Cadwallader, Neshaminy Falls; and Mrs. Leona Jackson, Atlanta, Ga.

The funeral will be conducted by the Rev. Walter F. Humphrey, pastor of Langhorne Methodist Church, on Saturday at two p. m., at the Horner funeral home, Langhorne. Interment will be in Union Cemetery, Richboro.

8,000 Russian Prisoners

Helsinki, Feb. 1.—As many as 8,000 Russian soldiers are now held in Finnish prison camps, it was estimated reliably today. One camp contained 1,000 Soviets, but of these, only one is a member of the Communist party, authorities said.

Deep Snow in Susquehanna Valley

Harrisburg, Feb. 1.—Snow depths of 9 to 21 inches in the Susquehanna Valley were reported today by the Federal-State Flood Forecasting Service. Streams generally were frozen solid and minor ice jams were said to exist at Towanda and Wilkes-Barre, on the northern branch of the Susquehanna, and at Mount Union and Newport, on the Juniata.

Maximum height of the ice jam was reported at 5 feet at Mountain Union and Newport, while the maximum thickness of ice was 27 inches at Renovo. A 21-inch snow depth was found at Frostburg.

Many Motorists Today
Are Without Licenses

Many local motorists, not having their 1940 operator's licenses, today are driving with one eye on the road and the other peeled for police. But these local motorists are just like 600,000 other motorists in Pennsylvania.

Yesterday many of the local motorists visited the Municipal Building and inquired of Bristol police what they should do. Some of them said that they had sent twice for license application blanks while others said that they had written asking why the failure to receive their operator's license.

According to news dispatches from Harrisburg, the legal status of the 600,000 drivers remained a puzzle, however, and it was hinted by state officials that State Police would not press the arrests of those apprehended without 1940 permits.

Approximately 2,000,000 drivers had obtained 1940 licenses in conformity with a change in the motor vehicle code making the expiration date of operators' privileges January 31 instead of February 28 as previously.

Because the 1939 cards were distributed for use until the end of February, however, the contention was that motorist had the legal right to use them until that time. Attorney General Claude T. Reno was preparing a ruling on the question.

Neither Secretary of Revenue William J. Hamilton, Jr., nor Motor Police Commissioner Lynn G. Adams would give any satisfaction when asked if motorists using 1939 licenses would be prosecuted.

"It's the revenue department's baby," Adams declared. "Until we get orders we aren't going to do anything. That's all I'm saying."

Hamilton wouldn't say that much.

Girl Dies of Motor Injuries

Philadelphia, Feb. 1.—Margaret Kane, 10, died today of injuries received when she and her sister, Anna, 11, were struck by an automobile, hurrying home after buying candy with a few pennies they earned for being good.

The driver of the car, Leslie Hicks, 26, Negro chauffeur, Camden, N. J., was held on a technical charge of manslaughter. Doctors this morning reported Anna's condition as critical.

Keen Excitement at Gobbler's Knob

The Weather Works, Gobbler's Knob, Punxsutawney, Pa., Feb. 1.—"Twice like the night before Christmas at the weather works today, as townsmen prepared amid the usual pomp and ceremony, to watch out for Bre'r groundhog and the anticipated weather forecast.

Tradition says that if the groundhog sees his shadow tomorrow and returns to his burrow, six weeks of winter is still ahead. If it doesn't, then an early spring is around the corner. To this, the regular weatherman says: "phooey."

Business will be at a standstill tomorrow morning, when at the appointed hour of 8:50, a delegation of over 50 business men, borough officials and newspaper reporters will watch for the groundhog.

Dave Hoover, the lone survivor of the group which inaugurated the custom half a century ago will head the party.

Crosby To Leave Hospital

Hollywood, Feb. 1.—Bing Crosby probably will leave the hospital today, escaping the ordeal of an appendectomy.

This word came from his physician, who said the crooner's condition was good, and that an operation will not be necessary, at least for the present. Crosby was taken to the hospital Monday for observation, after suffering a mild attack of appendicitis.

ANOTHER RECORD
BROKEN BY BUREAU

One Hundred and Ninety-Nine Couples Are Issued Licenses

ALL-TIME HIGH IN 1939

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 1.—Another January record was broken last month at the Bucks county marriage license bureau when 199 couples were issued marriage licenses, just four more than January, 1939, which was the previous high January mark.

Records however, mean nothing to the office of the Clerk of Orphans' Court, for on several different occasions last year, new records were established. In fact the year 1939 was the all-time high for marriage license business with a total of 3001 licenses issued.

This busy office is in charge of Mrs. Adelaide Ross, newly-elected Clerk of Orphans' Court and Deputy Clerk Joseph Keating, of Bristol. Miss M. Elizabeth Gore, of Newtown township, is a transcribing clerk in the Orphans' Court office.

Two years ago in January only 99 marriage licenses were granted compared to 199 this January.

An inspection of the marriage license docket shows that approximately 70 per cent of the applicants were non-residents of Bucks county, most of them coming from Philadelphia, Trenton and other New Jersey points. Justice of the Peace James Laughlin, Bristol, Bucks county's "marrying squire," Justice W. Carlile Hobensack, Doylestown; Justice Neal Nolan, Morrisville, married the large majority of the non-resident couples and some of the Bucks county couples. Justice Laughlin married more than 50 couples in January himself.

The altar-bound couples who received Bucks county marriage licenses in January came from eight different states. Twelve of the male applicants had been divorced and 13 of the female applicants were divorced.

As usual most of the applications for marriage licenses on the part of non-resident couples, were filed by Justices of the Peace for the applicants.

The average age of the applicants in January was 27 for the males and 26 for the females.

Bristol again furnished more applicants than any Bucks county community, with Morrisville ranking second, and Quakertown third in the list.

Mary Lou Schluben, 14-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schluben, Sellersville, died of leukemia, in Hahnemann Hospital, Philadelphia, Saturday, this being the first case of the dread disease reported in Sellersville. Attempts to save her life by blood transfusion proved futile.

Doylestown school was emptied of pupils in two minutes, during the course of a fire drill this week.

Supervising Principal J. Leonard Halderman, who explained that Monday was the best day of the month to hold the drill, keeping in mind the severe winter weather, said about 1100 pupils took part in the drill.

The shortest drill performed this year took place in exactly one minute and 50 seconds, but Mr. Halderman said Monday's performance was good despite the ten seconds variance.

MORRISVILLE HIGH IS APPROVED BY ASS'N

Rating For Two Years By Middle States Ass'n of Colleges, Secondary Schools

OFFICIALS ARE PLEASED

MORRISVILLE, Feb. 1.—Morrisville high school has been approved for the next two years by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, according to an announcement by the association just received by high school officials.

This is the first time in the history of Morrisville school that approval has been given for such a period.

The approval rating is based on numerous principles, including the modern buildings available, records of students in college, ability of teachers, condition of class rooms, etc.

The compilation of comparative freshman year standings of Morrisville High graduates who had entered college and on whose standing the association depended to get reports was very pleasing. This compilation covers a 10-year period and is an excellent index of the college success of graduates here. The report covers a total of 54 students and shows that of that number 19 stood in the highest fifth, 13 ranked in the second fifth, 13 stood in the middle fifth, four ranked in the second lowest fifth and eight ranked in the lowest fifth. One was in the upper third and five were not ranked by the institutes they attended.

The comparison includes students from private preparatory schools and high schools, and indicates that local graduates are doing very satisfactory college work.

TWO SMALL FIRES

Bristol Consolidated firemen were called out twice last evening to fight small fires in outbuildings. The first call was to the property of Kirill Elcenko, Hayes street, where there was a fire in a small building in the yard. The flames were quickly extinguished. THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

"Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc."

Entitled To Know

Washington, Jan. 31.

UNLESS there comes a clarifying statement from Mr. Roosevelt within the next few days, the Democratic National Committee, which meets here on Monday, will face a party situation unparalleled in politics. The committee is composed of 1 man and 1 woman from each of the 48 states—96 in all.

MOST of them are party leaders in their respective States. The primary purpose of the gathering is to select a date for the national convention. But the question of whether Mr. Roosevelt is trying to secure another nomination will be uppermost in the minds of them all. It is important to them that they know. And if Mr. Roosevelt maintains his riddle pose, out of which he is getting such fun, throughout the stay of these party figures, he will have to do considerable squinting.

BECAUSE it is the purpose of a number of these committee men and women to put it as squarely up to the President personally, when they individually call on him—and many will—as they know how. It would be unnatural for those who see Mr. Roosevelt not to ask the question. And it will be much more difficult for him to be evasive and mysterious with them, without conveying a definite impression, than at his press conferences where the question is asked for publication and he always has a tremendous advantage.

MOREOVER, these men and women have a distinct right to ask and to know. This riddle business isn't funny to them; it is getting acutely embarrassing and is interfering with effective party politics. They not only are tired of being "mystified," but they are pained at the mystification. Moreover, most of them see no sense in prolonging it and are baffled at the sort of

SEVERAL NEW HOUSES
ERECTED HERE LAST YEAR

Sixth Ward Led All Other Sections in Number of New Residences

FIGURES ARE GIVEN

There was quite a building boom in Bristol in 1939, with most of the activity centered in the building of new houses, and the alterations of existing dwellings converting them into apartments. One new store building was erected, extensive alterations made to another, an addition built to one church, and numerous garages were constructed. The total investment in these new improvements represents $76,128.

Seven new homes were erected in the sixth ward, while in the fifth ward renovations were made to a group of five which greatly improved the community in which they were located. Five garages were built, in the first, second, third and sixth wards.

Of the total amount spent for building improvements, last year, according to the records of John S. Roberts, Jr., building inspector, $30,500 was spent for new dwellings. The next largest amount was spent for alterations in structures converting them into apartments. This sum totalled $21,028. This indicates the growing demand in Bristol for apartments.

The sixth ward exceeded all others in the total amount spent in building operations last year. The sum spent in each of the respective six wards was as follows: First ward, $28,728; second, $2,000; third, $700; fourth, $200; fifth, $10,200; sixth, $76,128.

The greatest improvement in the mercantile area was the store building erected at 206-208 Mill street for Woler's Wallpaper store. Another outstanding improvement was the alterations and additions made to the First Baptist Church. A group of Cape Cod houses was built in the sixth ward at East Circle, and has started the development of that section. The remodeling of the row of four brick houses and one frame house on Radcliffe street, opposite St. Mark's Church, has proven a distinct benefit to that community.

ATHLETES GET BACK
10-FOLD WHAT THEY GIVE THEIR SCHOOL

William Sheridan, Wrestling Coach at Lehigh, Speaks to Bristol Students

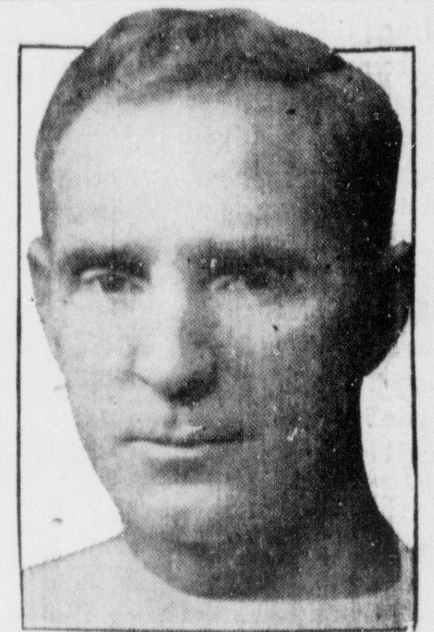

AT BRISTOL HIGH

Tells Youth of Light Weight They Have Chance Through Many Wrestling Teams

"Whatever you give to your school and coach in the sporting line, you will get back ten-fold."

This was the message which William Sheridan, coach of wrestling at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, gave to students of Bristol high school, during the assembly period in the high school auditorium, yesterday afternoon.

Expressing at the outset of his address, his pleasure over the new life

injected into wrestling at Bristol high school, Coach Sheridan said to the lads whose size denotes for them the task of water-boys on other sports teams in high school, that wrestling holds active participation for them. "You small boys have a chance when it comes to wrestling, for even if your weight is well below 100, you can go out for one of the wrestling teams in your school. Wrestling gives to the boy an outlook on the athletic line that is a healthy outlook."

Developing an average of one Eastern intercollegiate wrestling champion a year, Sheridan is now in his 29th year as coach of the Lehigh University wrestlers. Since 1911, he has coached 36 individual champions, and he has become known throughout the East as "dean of the wrestling coaches."

Winner of 74 different open amateur wrestling tournaments in England and Scotland, Sheridan is said to have had no peer on the mat in his class when a youth. He was featherweight champion of the British Isles at the age of 17, and he held that or the lightweight crown for the next seven years until he emigrated to Canada.

The visiting coach, from wide experience in his chosen vocation, drew forth interesting accounts of college boys, who through interest in athletic endeavors had their entire attitude toward life changed. "You will find that the ones who have the jump on the other fellows, are those who at least tried out for teams, rather than being content for cheering material alone. And wrestling gives boys a big chance, through intra-mural activity," he added as he told of 21 complete fraternity teams turned out last year at Lehigh.

"Participation in wrestling not only helps the boys to know himself, but he gets to know other boys better," said Coach Sheridan, as he cited individual cases that had developed miraculously through participation in sports. One of the cases specified was that of a very home-sick and timid youth from a farm home, for whom college held little other than study the first year. Anxious that his parents visit the college and take him home, the plea was unheeded, due to insistence on the part of a relative

IS IT FOOLISH TO WORK?

Students of criminal life remark that one idea which is widely held by lawbreakers is that there are much easier and more profitable ways of getting through the world than by working. The "smart guy" says that the worker's lot is almost invariably hard. To accumulate money enough to live on is such a slow and difficult process that he cannot expect to realize such an aim unless he has unusual strokes of luck, or is far more brilliant than average.

Hence, the criminal mind argues, it is necessary to take a chance and try crooked methods. It is held that the idea of a God who punishes wrongdoing is exploded, and the only thing to fear is getting found out. The criminal mind says that only people of commonplace or low intelligence work, and that a brainy fellow should live by his wits. As he jumps into the stolen automobile that takes him from the scene of his crime, he glories in his supposed superiority of intellect.

But he is not so smart as he thinks. He is undertaking to fight the whole world. Every honest person is watching for indications of such base creatures. No one is brilliant enough to win at a game containing such hazards.

No human mind is so disciplined that it will never do some careless thing that will reveal dishonest acts. The criminal will some day leave the fatal fingerprint that discloses his identity, or some article that can be identified. He cannot always wear a mask on his face, and some- body will remember his evil eye and furtive look. Nothing seems more certain than that he will eventually land in jail.

Meanwhile, the faithful worker who is building up a reputation and home for himself by his honest conduct, goes on to years of self respect and freedom from worry, which the hunted criminal can never hope to attain.

CROP WORRIES

What is extreme cold doing to the wheat? There can be no positive answer to that until the snow blanket over the plains is melted and the crop begins a spring growth. Based upon past experience, observers believe the hard winter crop in Kansas, Oklahoma and the Texas panhandle is sufficiently hardy that the snow covering will see it through prolonged below-zero temperatures.

There is considerable uneasiness about the fate of soft winter wheat in parts of the Ohio Valley where there has been little or no snow cover.

Despite the snow, however, the real worry continues to be subsoil moisture. Records over a long period show that moisture deficiency at seeding time has an adverse effect upon the crop. The moisture deficiency for Nebraska since seeding time is 3.65 inches; for Kansas, 3.56 inches; for Oklahoma, 4.25 inches; and for Missouri, 4.93 inches. In Nebraska and Oklahoma the deficiency exceeds the total amount of moisture received since September 1.

In some of the spring wheat states in the north experts are questioning whether it will be worth while to seed land in the spring unless deficiencies in moisture are remedied by that time.

Japan's anxiety about losing face now extends to her shirt.

COPS NOW "BROWN COATS"

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — (INS) — The "blue-coats" are "brown-coats" now in Kansas City.

Reorganization of the police department by Chief L. B. Reed has extended even to the uniform which now is similar to an army officer's.

The coats are olive drab, the long, straight trousers are tan with olive drab stripes. Brown caps and overcoats, tan shirts and shoes, and black ties complete the ensembles.

"SELF MADE GIRL" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER XIV

Even her silences were easier to bear than one of Glenn's letters, when they came. So friendly, matter of fact, so far away. His college work. His new, strange interests. Sometimes a reference to his brother, or a word about Constance.

"Hear that Connie and Mrs. Scott are still in France?"

"Saw Alice Winters, Connie's cousin?"

Casual reference to people she didn't know, to a life she'd never have the chance to know. Oh, why did she think about him at all? Why let herself? I won't answer the letter she'd think when it came. It doesn't deserve an answer! Then she'd read it over, and over again, and presently she'd read into it the things that she wanted to hear, and the casual words would take on warmth and inner meaning. In an hour she'd have pen and paper, struggling for the right tone for her answer.

No glad to hear from you! New York and Constance are just alike—never any more than a few scribbled words—"

No, that sounded too complaining. She'd tear it up, start again: "Your letter, and scream of a letter from Connie today, so your homesick girl is thrilled! New York is wonderful, and the little group of us here at the crazy tearoom we call 'Tanya's. We do have such fun. Just a crazy group of artists and writers and musicians, but I think you'd find them interesting. It's very thrilling to me—"

That wasn't just right, but she let it go. He'd never know the difference. Besides they WERE artists and writers and musicians! Didn't Nola and Paul paint, and wasn't King going to write a book, and didn't the little lame man who came on Mondays and Thursdays say that he played the piccolo in an orchestra somewhere?

That'll show him I have fun, too, she thought, as she sealed the letter and stamped it with a bang. That'll show him!

But she didn't mean it for an invitation. She didn't think he'd ever come to see her there.

It never occurred to Linda that Princeton was near, that Glenn might have come to New York any week-end. He was at Princeton, Constance was in school in France, and she didn't expect to see either of them for ages.

She almost failed when she opened one of his rare and precious letters and read that he'd be in New York on the following Friday, and hoped to see her.

She got out all the clothes she possessed, tried them all on, and wept. Nothing was presentable. Not a thing! The old blue suit she'd worn every night through the past winter was so shiny you could use it for a mirror. The wine colored wool dress was a little better, but how would she look in burgundy wool on a summer's day—even if it didn't matter how she felt? And her two summer wash-silks had been washed too often. They just wouldn't do.

She thought of borrowing a green crepe of Dora's, but what would she do for shoes, and gloves, and a hat? Panicky, she sat down and wrote him a letter. Terribly sorry, but she'd accepted an invitation to go out of town for the week-end. Something she couldn't get out of. Perhaps next time he came to New York....

Hating herself for her cowardice in not letting him see her as she was, she almost ran to the post-box to send it, before she could change her mind.

And that night, donning the embroidered peasant blouse, the full skirt with its quaint lace apron, and the stiff silver headress, she looked at herself in the long greenish mirror, saw that she was charming in it, and that she could have had Glenn come to Tanya's for dinner, could have worn the costume. He might have liked Gladys and Dora and the boys. They might have sat and talked about plays and books and things, and he might have been impressed with her. He might have liked it so much he'd come often, and see that he couldn't do without her, and talk to her and tell her...

"LINDA! Gladys' voice came rocketing up the stairway. "Linda—why are you so SLOW? We need you!"

And so Linda wiped away the tears that were starting to fall again, and went down to serve cabbage soup, for some people wanted hot food, no matter how hot it was, and how much trouble it was, and how much your heart might be broken.

"I SAID lamb chop!" the thin man who had taken the end table complained when she brought him hash and a poached egg.

"No, mine was chicken pattie," said the fat lady to whom she tried to pass on the hash.

"For heaven's sake, pay attention!" Gladys hissed in her ear. "What's the matter with you? They're new customers. Treat them RIGHT!"

"Yes! I will—I just—got mixed—"

And in spite of herself the tears overflowed again, and she never did find out for whom she ordered the hash.

What a night! What a summer! What a year! She couldn't even treat herself to a good cry over Glenn, for she was so busy worrying about everything else.

Sticky August and September giving way to lovely Indian summer that was spoilt because she hadn't a decent thing to wear. Then another winter. The cold of icy pavements striking through paper soles. Chills from Chapped, cracked hands, because she had no decent gloves. A whole year gone. A whole year out of her life!

Trying, day after day, for work. Answering ads. Calling at employment agencies. Rushing back to Tanya's to wait on table, help May with the dishes, run errands. School again at night.

She no longer felt that she couldn't go on. She was being whirled around and around in a wheel she'd started and couldn't stop, scrambling through a never-ending circle, a frightened squirrel in a cage.

When at last she got a position she could hardly believe it. "Monday morning," the tight-lipped woman who interviewed her said.

Monday morning... somebody wanted her to come to work on Monday morning. Work she'd be paid for... Linda stood smiling foolishly, licking her dry lips, after the woman had dismissed her. She couldn't believe it. After all this time.

It wouldn't have seemed much of a job, once. She was just to be a cog in the wheel in the machinery in a big insurance office. The work would be monotonous and dull, the pay small. But it was pay. Real money. Sixty dollars a month.

It hurt to have to start in a room full of girls of all shapes and sizes and ages, but for the most part fairly young and attractive, knowing that she looked shabby and out of date. But Linda held her head high, and pretended not to care. Nola Bush wouldn't care, Dora wouldn't care much either. Why should she? But she did. She cared terribly.

It was unfortunate that shyness and consciousness of her shabby clothes made her seem cold and aloof. The friendly advances of the other girls went unnoticed.

"Who does she think she is?" "PRUNE!" "STICK!"

Linda didn't realize how unpopular she was until it was too late to matter, and then she didn't care. Let them dislike her. Good! It would be just that much easier to climb up the ladder, over them.

Nola and Dora laughed at her determination to get ahead. They thought it was terribly funny. Gladys, who'd once done office work and had some idea of Linda's problems, shook her head.

"Take it from one who knows, Linda, you're barking up the wrong tree. You'll NEVER get out of the coddle class, once you're put in the big room with all the other nitwits. Of course, it's a job, but mark my words, it won't lead anywhere. Take my advice, and keep looking for something else—something where you'll have a chance to use what brains God gave you!"

"Give up my job it took me a solid year to get! Not me! I'm going to hang on until I get something decent out of it. And I will too! You wait and see."

"I'll be waiting!"

It didn't take long. Just four months.

On the first payday Linda bought a suit. A good, navy blue suit, not unlike the one that was new when she came to New York, but better, and smarter, and cheap because it was on sale, at the close of the season. Two blouses, shoes, and two pairs of hose, and a hat.

Now I can face the world, she thought proudly, not caring that there was nothing left for carfare, and almost nothing for lunches.

The girls in the office noticed the new outfit, disliked her the more for it.

The tight-lipped Miss Spedder, in charge of personnel, noticed it, too. She noticed the bright, pretty accessories that came into the picture on the next payday, the evidences of a professional manicure, the greater poise, the better grooming.

On the first of February there was a vacancy in the stenographic department. Miss Perry seemed a nice, quiet little thing. Why not give her the chance?

A five dollar raise on the first of October, and Linda was in seventh heaven. She had been paying rent to the girls for her room and board since finding work, and now she began to yearn for a change. The streaked brownish wallpaper that had become almost invisible to her in months of living with it, again began to irritate her. So did Gladys' calm monopolizing of the bathroom, and Dora's maddening habit of knocking all the clothes off the hangers, while she searched for a mislaid dress of her own.

But how to bring up the question? How to break with the friends that had helped her when she really needed it?

Of course I'd still be glad to come, and help if they needed me, she thought, trying to justify herself. I wouldn't be so far away, and they could easily telephone.

RECIPES: Those Which Interest Women

ECONOMY MEATS CAN BE SERVED IN REAL STYLE

Here Are Ways to Add Distinction to the Meals You Serve Your Family

Style is an enviable quality whether in dress, in furnishings, or in foods and when it can be combined with economy, there is all the more credit due.

Economy meat dishes are taking on style these days," says Inez S. Willson, home economist. Everywhere, more attention is being given to the preparation of these economical cuts of meat so that they will be thoroughly enjoyed at the table. This is a distinct advantage because it helps the food budget without disappointing your family and without sacrificing anything in food value. Sometimes the "styling" may mean having the bone removed at the market so that the cut may be easily carved at the table. Or it may be a little quirk in preparation which gives the meat dish distinction. Here are a few "well-styled" meat dishes which you will want to try. Once you've tried them, you will serve them again and again.

Flank Steak Fillets

1 flank steak
2 cups bread crumbs
1 small onion, grated
1/2 cup diced celery
2 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper

Have a flank steak scored at the market. Make a dressing of the other ingredients and spread over steak. Roll like a jelly roll. Place skewers through the roll at about one inch intervals. Slice between the rolls. Brown these slices on both sides in hot lard, add 1/4 cup hot water, cover and cook very slowly until the fillets are tender about one hour.

Beef Short Rib Crown

2 sections of beef plate, 3 inches wide
3 cups bread crumbs
1 cup diced celery
1 onion finely diced or grated
2 eggs, slightly beaten
Salt and pepper

Have two sections of beef plate cut 3 inches wide and as many ribs long as there are persons to be served. Four to six ribs in length makes a crown of a convenient size. Sew the ends together and place on a trivet in a covered kettle. The rib ends should stand up and down. To make a dressing of the other ingredients, soak bread crumbs in water, squeeze out, add the other ingredients and mix thoroughly. Pile this dressing into the center of the short rib crown. Place, uncovered, in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for one hour. Then add 1 1/2 cups water, cover tightly, and allow to cook one and a half hours longer, two and a half hours in all.

To serve, place crown right side up on a large round chop plate. In carving, cut crown between the ribs, and serve a rib section, together with a generous dressing to each person.

Stylish Meat Balls

1/2 pound ground beef
1/2 cup uncooked rice
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 can tomato soup
1/2 can water
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper

Mix ground beef, rice and salt and pepper. Shape into small balls and drop into tomato soup, to which water, onion and green pepper have been added. Cook slowly until both meat and rice are done, about one hour. Serve meat balls with the tomato sauce over them.

A Casserole Pie

By Frances Lee Barton
MEAT, vegetables, tapioca, seasoning, butter and milk—all baked in a casserole until you have a dish fit for kinfolk or company. That's the cold-weather luxury featured below:

Liver and Vegetable Pie
1/4 pound salt pork, diced; 1 1/2 cups cooked liver, cut in pieces; 1 1/2 cups sliced onions; 1 cup diced carrots; 2 1/2 cups boiling water; 1 1/2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca; 1/4 teaspoon celery salt; 1/4 teaspoon sage; dash of paprika; dash of black pepper; 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce; 1 cup sifted flour; 1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder; 1/4 teaspoon salt; 3 tablespoons butter or other shortening; 6 tablespoons milk (about).
Try out salt pork; add liver and brown slightly. Cook onions and carrots in boiling salted water until just tender. Drain; measure liquid and add water to make two cups. Add vegetables and liquid to meat mixture; then add remaining ingredients and bring to a brisk boil, stirring constantly. Turn into greased casserole.
Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening. Add milk gradually, stirring until soft dough is formed. Turn out on slightly floured board and knead 20 seconds, or enough to shape. Roll dough 1/4 inch thick; with sharp knife make slits to permit escape of steam. Fit over meat mixture in casserole. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 20 minutes. Serves 6 to 8.

AN APPRECIATED VALENTINE

Loin lamb chops just "go" on the menu of the luncheon or dinner party for St. Valentine's Day. And when they are broiled to a turn and arranged as shown in the accompanying photograph, they are sure to make a hit with the guests at your party.

The garnishes suggested here are simple but effective. Peach halves are topped with hearts cut from canned cranberry jelly. The hot baking powder biscuits are cut in heart shape to further emphasize the Valentine motif.

And broiling lamb chops is simple, too, if you do it the modern way. Here are the easy steps: Turn heat high; place chops on broiler rack and slide broiler pan into position so that there is about three inches between the top surface of the chops and the heat; when the chops are nicely browned, season with salt and pepper and turn; continue broiling until second side browns, about fifteen minutes in all. Arrange on platter and serve at once.

If there is a regular late comer among your invited guests, wait until you see her turn the corner before the chops are put in to broil. Better to keep your guests waiting for broiled lamb chops than to keep the chops waiting for late guests.

nation fresh vegetable salad, steamed chocolate pudding, and coffee.
Roast Beef—Baked potatoes, escalloped tomatoes, blushing pear salad, hot rolls,ocha souffle, and coffee.

DECAFFEINATED COFFEE MAKES HOSTESS POPULAR

Any hostess can score a five-star success as a coffee brewer with any kind of apparatus if she follows a few simple rules exactly. Hostesses of 1940 are making it a habit to offer decaffeinated coffee to guests, as well as family, so that extra cups of this favorite American beverage can be served without checking up on sleeping problems.

Here are the rules: Be sure the coffee equipment is absolutely clean. Make all measurements exact. Time the coffee brewing to the second. When brewing decaffeinated coffee by the pot or percolator methods, remember that a slightly longer time is required to bring out the rich, fragrant flavor. You can make decaffeinated coffee by any method—pot, percolator or drip. If you make your coffee in a percolator, allow 15 to 20 minutes gentle "perkling."

Boiled Coffee

(Cleared With Egg)

Use 1 heaping tablespoon ground decaffeinated coffee (regular grind) and 1 teaspoon beaten egg for each cup (1/2 pint) cold water. Combine coffee and egg in pot and mix thoroughly. Pour in water and bring slowly to a boil, stirring coffee down occasionally. Remove from fire immediately and let stand in warm place 3 to 5 minutes. Pour 1/4 cup cold water into pot to settle. Strain from the grounds through a fine wire strainer, muslin, or cheesecloth. (Boiled coffee may also be prepared without the egg.)

Cafe Au Lait

(Coffee with Milk)

Use 1 1/2 heaping tablespoons decaffeinated coffee to each cup (1/2 pint) water. Make by any method desired. Have ready a pot of hot milk. When serving, pour milk and coffee together into cup in equal amounts. If using decaffeinated coffee drip

A Pudding For ALL

By Frances Lee Barton

SOME folks build castles in the air. Some have them on the kitchen. Oh! there are castles everywhere. Yet none of them are mine. But wait! Among my recipes a castle pudding glimmers. And hither at me in rebuke "I'm yours, his, hers or ours."

Castle Pudding

2 cups sifted cake flour; 2 1/4 teaspoons double-acting baking powder; 1/4 teaspoon salt; 1/2 cup butter or other shortening; 1/2 cup sugar; 1 egg, well beaten; 1 cup milk.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and cream together thoroughly. Add egg, then flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating well after each addition. Turn into greased individual molds, filling them 1/2 full. Cover tightly and steam 1 hour. Serve hot with Crisp Sauce.

Crisp Sauce

2 tablespoons hot water; 1/2 cup tart red jelly or jam (currant, cherry, strawberry or red raspberry); 1 teaspoon lemon juice; dash of salt.

Add hot water to jelly and stir until blended. Add lemon juice and salt. (If jam is used, strain mixture.) Serve on cottage or light steamed puddings. Makes 1/2 cup sauce.

Not! Double the recipe for use with Castle Puddings.

BEEF ROAST FOR COMPANY DINNER

"When company is coming and you are puzzled about what to serve, you are wise to plan the dinner around a tempting beef roast," says Inez S. Willson, home economist. Everyone, regardless of his nationality, likes roast beef served with golden brown Yorkshire pudding, baked in the savory beef juices.

The choice of beef roasts for company is the standing rib or rolled rib. Which of these you choose, depends upon personal preference. Some carvers say the rolled rib roast is easier to carve than the standing rib, because with it, they merely cut slices across the top. However, the standing rib presents no difficult problem along this line. In carving, slices are cut across the top, and released by cutting along the bone with the tip of the knife.

Cooking the Beef Roast

A beef roast for company must be properly prepared which means that it should be cooked at a low temperature. This is very important if you desire a roast which is tender and juicy and evenly done throughout. When a low temperature is used, there is less shrinkage, the roast makes a better appearance because the outside is nicely browned and not charred, and the roast will be evenly done throughout, rare, medium, or well-done, as desired, with exception of the outside slices. A temperature of 300 degrees F. has been found to give excellent results. To cook, place the roast, fat side up, in an open roasting pan. A standing rib roast needs no rack because the rib bones, placed down, serve this purpose. Roast uncovered at a low temperature until done.

There is an almost limitless number of menus which may be planned around a beef roast, because it combines with practically all vegetables and fruits. Here is a suggestion for an easy company dinner:

Roast Beef Dinner
Tomato Juice Cocktail
Roast Beef Browned Potatoes
Asparagus Tips
Hot Rolls Butter
Watercress Salad French Dressing
Lemon Chiffon Pie
Coffee

CUMBERLAND SAUCE FOR DUCK

(Serves 4-6)
1/3 cup orange juice
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 cup powdered sugar
2 tablespoons currant jelly
Grated rind 1 orange
Grated rind 1 lemon
1 tablespoon grated horseradish.
Beat thoroughly, heat and serve.

LEMON MINCEMEAT

(Makes 1 quart—Filling for 2 pies)
1/2 cup lemon juice
1 cup raisins, scalded, drained and chopped
2 cups finely chopped apple
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1/2 cup candied orange peel (or orange marmalade)
2 cups sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon ginger
Combine ingredients and seal in sterilized jars or make into pies, adding one-quarter cup melted butter to each pie.

OVEN MEALS FOR BUSY DAYS

What a help the oven is on busy days when there are so many tasks to engage the attention of the homemaker! A meal prepared entirely in the oven requires practically no watching, which is a distinct advantage to the homemaker because the foods can be placed in the oven and forgotten until done.

An oven meal is planned in much the same way that other meals are—that is, it is planned around the meat dish. This is a nutritionally sound way of planning meals, and also it is an easy way to make sure that the flavors will blend. It is especially wise to plan the oven meal in this way because after the meat is chosen, you can plan the vegetables which go with it in flavor and which are cooked at the same temperature.

Here are suggestions for oven meal combinations, given by Inez S. Willson, home economist. The entire main course may be cooked in the oven. This is supplemented with a salad, dessert and beverage, and sometimes the dessert, also, may be baked in the oven if desired.

Oven Meals

THE COOK BOOK CODE

The cook book speaks a language of its own—too often a strange, foreign language we do not understand. How often have we started a recipe, just to be disturbed in the middle of it by some cryptic phrase we cannot decipher? Clip this cook book code and paste it in the front of your recipe file. It will come in handy very often.

A la broche—Cooked on a skewer.
Aspic—A stiff meat jelly of piquant flavor.
Au gratin—With browned crumbs.
Au jus—With natural gravy.
Bisque—Shell fish soups.
Bombe—Round mold used for ices.
Bonne Bouche—A good-sized mouthful.
Braise—Meat or poultry stewed in a covered pan.
Canape—Food served on toast or biscuits.
Chiffonade—Vegetables shredded.
Compote—A stew of fruit.
Croustons—Diced, or fancy-shaped pieces of bread either toasted or fried in butter.
Devilled—Very highly seasoned.
Entree—A side dish served with the regular course.
Foie Gras—Liver (of geese).
Fondue—A dish made of melted cheese and eggs.
Fondant—Sugar boiled and beaten to a creamy mass.
Frappe—Partly frozen.

EARNINGS OF GRADUATES

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—Eight out of every 100 women college graduates earn $3,000 a year, but a few with doctor's degrees make up to $10,000, according to a 10-year survey made by Dr. Susan Kingsbury, president of the Philadelphia Women's University Club. The nation-wide study showed that the majority of college-trained women earn $28.50 a week.

Sellersville Is Minus Water As Main Breaks

speed up the breaking up of the frozen ground. Until regular water pressure is restored, the factory that employs about 900 persons will be idle, and all the homes in the southern end of the community will be without water supply of any kind.

The break was discovered early yesterday morning. It is believed to be near the home of Samuel Groff, South Main street.

A large quantity of water seeped through to the surface there, and spread across the street, which is the Bethlehem pike, coating it with thick glassy ice.

There is an eight-inch main at that point which serves the entire end of the town south of the Branch creek. The United States Gauge employees were turned away at the door of the plant when they reported for work.

Borough officials sought to bring about a quick alleviation of the condition by running hose lines borrowed from the Sellersville Fire Company from above the break to a point below it. About 1,000 feet of hose was laid out, but the line broke, probably from freezing, and the plan had to be given up.

The only solution was to go directly to the break, which may prove a long job under present weather conditions.

Phillip Coll, borough street commissioner, who is in charge of the situation, said that every possible effort is being made to speed up the work and to have water service restored promptly.

Until the break is actually located, however, he cannot even guess the length of time that will pass before the repairs are made.

"MODERN PRINTING AT MODERATE PRICES"

LOOKING FORWARD

By Franklyn Waltman

Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

Despite the public, and even more privately intense, hostility of President Roosevelt, the House of Representatives has decisively voted to extend for another year the authority of the Dies Committee Investigating Un-American Activities. All good and thoughtful Americans will applaud the vote of confidence given the Dies Committee by the House.

Without doubt the Dies Committee has made some mistakes—has, on occasion, gone off half-cocked. But on the whole this Committee has rendered a very great service to the nation in ferreting out those subversive elements in our population who seek to destroy our American form of representative, republican government. The value of the Committee's services cannot be measured in the dollars—and they have been comparatively few—that it has spent.

Of course it is easy to see bogey men under every bed in times when war is abroad in the world. But wise men and women know that the American government never will be destroyed by the hundred thousand or so afflicted Communists or by such play-boy Fuehrers and petty chisellers as Fritz Kuhn. They know that the seeds of our destruction must first sprout from within the government itself by disregard of our traditions.

This is the reason why it is so disturbing to witness the virtually open alliance that exists—or has existed—between President Roosevelt and his Administration, on the one hand, and Communist agencies or agents, on the other, as demonstrated indisputably by the Dies Committee investigations. Moreover, it is heart-breaking to see the President's wife giving public sympathy and encouragement to such elements at the very time when the Dies Committee faced the difficult task of ascertaining the truth.

Mrs. Roosevelt's open sympathy with leaders of the American Youth Congress is so well known as not to need recital here. Suffice to say that the day leaders of this organization were appearing before the Dies Committee, Mrs. Roosevelt made a point of joining the spectators in the Committee Room and subsequently invited several of the organization's leaders to the White House to luncheon. All of this happened as Soviet Russia was launching its barbaric assault on little Finland.

Well, what is wrong with the American Youth Congress—what has it to do with Communist Russia? Let us turn to the recent report of the Dies Committee—a report which won universal applause for its fairness and its objectivity.

"In the case of the American Youth Congress," reported the Dies Committee, "the committee finds a central organization which has no membership of its own, but which attempts to affiliate together the largest possible number of organizations of American young people, the vast majority of whom have no connection with Communism, Nazi-ism or any movement of that sort, but are members of some of the most necessary and valuable organizations which our country possesses."

"The Young Communist League, as well as certain other organizations in which Communists have played an important part is affiliated with the American Youth Congress and testimony has been presented to the committee to indicate that this minority group has at times exerted an influence on the American Youth Congress out of all proportion to its size."

"The committee is unable to see how it is possible for this or any other organization of American young people claiming to preserve and vitalize the American institutions and life of America to expect to promote that work by including within its ranks those who do not believe in democracy, but in a contrary philosophy of life and form of government."

Nor can we see how this is possible. What is more, we cannot understand why the Presidential family feels it necessary to go out of its way to show friendship for an organization subject to such criticism as that directed against the American Youth Congress by the unanimous vote of the Dies Committee.

And yet, such things should not surprise us after witnessing the manner in which the President, Harry Hopkins and National Youth Administrator Aubrey Williams have coddled David Lasser and his Communist-tinted Workers Alliance. Lasser not only has the blessing of the New Deal but he appears to have entry to the President's office whenever he wants it. Indeed, the White House has used him to embarrass for political purposes State Governors struggling with their local problems.

The records of the Dies Committee contain testimony from Herbert Benjamin, Secretary-Treasurer of the Workers Alliance to the effect that the Communist Party inspired and brought about the formation of the Workers Alliance. Benjamin is an avowed Communist and Lasser admitted going to Moscow as "a delegate to the twentieth anniversary of the Russian Revolution," his expenses being paid by the dues wrung out of the meager pay which Workers Alliance members get on relief rolls.

It is no wonder that Earl Browder, chief Communist leader in this country not long ago described President Roosevelt as our "first and greatest Democrat."

ATTENDS POST-GRADUATE SEMINAR

Among the group of almost a hundred practicing pharmacists who returned to the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science for a three-day post-graduate Seminar in Modern Pharmaceutical Practice, was Asa Fabian, a retail pharmacist of Bristol. This session of lectures and demonstrations on the latest in professional and scientific procedures and technique was given at the century-old Philadelphia institution on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and were presented by twenty of the members of the faculty who devoted considerable time to the exposition of the latest in practical and technical problems and their solutions. Registered pharmacists in manufacturing, hospital and retail prescription practice from many of the Middle Atlantic States attended, including men and women from West Virginia, Maryland, District of Columbia, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Connecticut and other States. This second annual Seminar on practice for registered pharmacists is a feature of the co-operative service extended by the College to those in community practice.

The Great Game of Politics

game being played. It was all right to be a riddle for a while, but the time approaches now when they think they are entitled to the answer. Some of these committee members are for Mr. Roosevelt's renomination, because of well-understood personal and political reasons. Others are for him on the surface, but not at heart, and there are others—probably a third of the whole—strongly opposed to him. These either favor one or another of the various aspirants or are just anti-New Deal and anti-Roosevelt.

THE committeemen know perfectly well that the third-term movement is being managed by the brain trusters, Mr. Thomas Corcoran, who is personally very close to the President and unlikely to do anything of which he disapproves. Associated with Mr. Corcoran and shouting loudly for a third term are jobholders such as Mr. Ickes and Mr. Wallace, neither of whom are Democrats, and such politicians as Mayor Eddie Kelly of Chicago, Frank Hague, of New Jersey, and Senator Guffey, of Pennsylvania, whose personal interests in the Roosevelt candidacy are obvious. On the other hand, they know that the chairman of the National Committee, Mr. Farley, is not for a third nomination. Politically speaking, Mr. Farley means more to these men and women than a hundred Corcorans and Ickes.

HE is the man who has managed two successful national campaigns. He is the man with whom they have done business for eight years. He talks their language and has their confidence. There is the further fact that Vice-President Garner, Mr. Roosevelt's running mate in two campaigns, believes a third nomination bad, both for the party and for the country. About one-third of the Democrats in the Senate agree with him to the extent of being ready to vote for the Holt anti-third-term resolution if and when it is presented.

CONSIDERING these things, the committee men and women know that talk of "drafting" Mr. Roosevelt is absurd. He can, they think, get the nomination, but only by conniving in the effort of the jobholders to bring about a convention condition where it will be plain that no candidate other than himself can be sure of the Roosevelt support. Clearly, the hope is

Choose Chic New Formal and Take Vacation "Away From It All"

By Susan Barden
International Illustrated News Writer

There's always some kind of a let-down after the winter holidays are over. So if you are fortunate you'll be planning to get away from it all for a change of locale. Florida, southern California or the Gulf states are ideal for those of you who want to escape from the winter scene, and a perfect vacation combines relaxing in the sun by day, and being glamorous and romantic under tropic skies by night.

Resort evening wear this season is going in for stripes and glitter in a big way. For young matrons and debutantes bright colors, and shining baubles add gaiety to their beauty and charm.

Jane Bryan is wearing an evening gown that is made of many stripes and many stripes. It's a beautiful black formal dress made of graduating widths of black taffeta bound together with white fagoting. A corsage of mystery gardenias accents the white, and a heavy necklace of gold adds glitter at the neck. The neckline is cut low and square, particularly becoming and cleverly contrived for the young thing who wants to be both sophisticated enough to please the stag line, and demure enough to pass father and mother's censorship. Youthful puffy little sleeves are another intriguing note that will win applause from both parents and beaux.

Wide Skirts Popular

The bouffant evening frock modeled above is an ever popular favorite. Designed by Turner of the Waldorf in a fragile and feminine mood, it is perfect for holiday evenings. It is made of imported gray net, with a basque bodice and a full swirling skirt which is striped vertically in sunburst design with shining rhinestones. A rhinestone pin closes the bodice, and rhinestone earrings are worn to complete the glittering effect.

Marian Shockley, radio star, has chosen a gown made of the new American acetate crepe fabric for southern resort wear. It was designed exclusively for her by Mildred Manning. The dress is in plaid parrot colors—red, green, yellow and white—and makes a striking spot of brilliance in any evening picture. The voluminous skirt is fan-pleated, wide and graceful for dancing either a rumba or a waltz. Folds of red velvet trim the bodice and form the shoulder straps.

So if you are seeking new climes and new adventures, don't forget to augment your wardrobe with a new gown before you hop a train, plane or boat. Then you'll be all prepared to meet the new man in your life underneath the southern moon.

conceal it behind a cloak of non-political silence and pretended ignorance of what his intimates are doing.

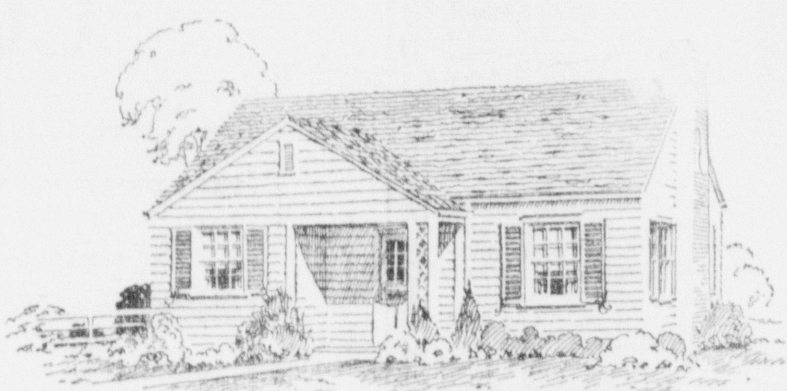

EITHER the President is acquiescing, which has the effect of connivance, in this movement, or he has made up his mind definitely, that the convention, after considering all other availables, will recognize that there is more sentiment for Mr. Roosevelt than all the rest and insist upon nominating him, despite the fact that it would split the party and present the Republicans with a major issue.

HOWEVER, even the most obtuse politician knows that such a re-nomination can only be brought about if Mr. Roosevelt schemes to bring it about. If, with his National Chairman, his Vice-President, all the leading Democratic newspapers and one-third of the Democratic Senators opposed, Mr. Roosevelt should be renominated, it will be because he has connived and co-operated with the Corcoran-Ickes group. There is no doubt of that. Nor will he be able to

FOUR ROOMS SERVE FIVE USES

ONE of the easiest rooms to eliminate when trying to cut costs on a house is the dining room because it is possible to set up a table in the living room, although sometimes inconvenient. One good solution of the dining area problem is to make provision for an alcove in the kitchen which uses minimum space but saves many steps in the every-day serving of meals. This Colonial bungalow has the traditional living room, two bedrooms and bath, and an extension to the front permits the inclusion of a well-lighted dining nook area in the kitchen.

The extension of this "ell" roof over the front door is inexpensive, but provides much-needed protection for the front door.

The corner fireplace is optional. In this case rather inexpensive as the chimney will be located in this position whether or not there is a fireplace. The extra cost involved is only the addition of a second flue to the chimney and the actual fireplace construction.

Playhouse at New Hope To Be Under New Management

The Bucks County Playhouse at New Hope will be operated next summer by Kenyon Nicholson, well known playwright, and Theron Bamberger, theatrical press agent and producer.

The theatre, located on the banks of the Delaware, was built a year ago by members of the literary, theatrical and art colony in Bucks County and was operated for the first time last summer when it was under the direction of St. John Terrell. Mr. Terrell has relinquished his lease because of other plans.

Nicholson and Bamberger expect to begin the summer season some time in June, presenting a series of 10 or 12 plays, mostly established Broadway successes, with perhaps one or two new plays. A company of leading Broadway players will be organized and it is planned to bring noted stars to the theatre from time to time.

The management will have a distinctly local flavor. Nicholson, author of "The Barker" and co-author of "Sailor, Beware," has had a summer home in Stockton, N. J., five miles from New Hope, for a number of years. Bamberger, producer of "Fly Away Home" and other plays, is a native of Philadelphia and formerly did newspaper work in that city.

The new directors each had long experience in the theatre. Nicholson, before becoming a playwright, was connected with the famous Stuart Walker stock company in Indianapolis. Bamberger, in addition to having been a producer, has publicized several score Broadway plays during the last 10 years. Last Summer he was director of publicity at the successful Deertrees Theatre in Harrison, Me.

"GYM" LEAGUE TO OPEN ITS SEASON HERE TOMORROW

Jenkintown Drakes Will Invade Bristol for Match

BRISTOL INEXPERIENCED

Practically All of Last Year's Team Either Graduated Or Are Ineligible

The Philadelphia Suburban Gymnastic League, which operated so successfully in its first season last year, will launch its second campaign when the Jenkintown Drakes invade Bristol to take on the Cardinal and Grey gymnasts tomorrow afternoon.

Bristol High, champions of the circuit in its initial season, will meet a stern test in its opener against the much improved and experienced Jenkintown combination coached by Bill Dougherty, former Bristol High athletic mentor.

The Drakes, who were runners-up to Bristol last year, have high hopes of passing the Cards this season to top the league honors. While the Dougherty-coached aggregation should have little difficulty in passing Bristol's weak and inexperienced club this season, they may find plenty of trouble in getting by another "dark horse" of the league in Upper Darby.

Practically all of the stars of Bristol's championship team of 1939 have either graduated or become ineligible for participation this year, which leaves coach Tom Campion in a quandary as to whom he might call upon to fill the numerous and important vacancies in order to produce a team at all well up to the standards of various gymnastic outfits of other years.

Thus, with Bristol almost certain to lose its title this year, the battle to be waged for the honors will take place next Friday afternoon, February 9, when the two most outstanding teams of the circuit, Jenkintown and Upper Darby, clash at Jenkintown. That will, in all probability, be the meet that will decide the championship for the 1940 campaign.

West Chester High, the fifth member of the circuit, withdrew its franchise just recently, which leaves the league to operate with only four teams this season.

The four teams which will comprise the league this season include Bristol, Cheltenham, Jenkintown, and Upper Darby.

Schedule of the Suburban Gymnastic League for 1940:

Fri., Feb. 2—Jenkintown at Bristol.
Fri., Feb. 9—Upper Darby at Jenkintown.
Fri., Feb. 16—Cheltenham at Upper Darby.
Fri., Feb. 23—Bristol at Upper Darby.
Fri., Feb. 30—Cheltenham at Jenkintown.
Fri., Mar. 1—Bristol at Cheltenham.
Wed., Mar. 6—Individual Championships—Jenkintown 7 p. m.
Sat., Mar. 9—P. L. A. A. District 1 Championships, West Chester State Teachers College.
Mr. Frederick Prosh of Temple University will be in charge of placing officials for each meet this season.

Dodger Wes

Wes Ferrell

Golf links call the ball players this time of the year as they prepare for the coming major league campaign. Here is Wes Ferrell, former star pitcher of the American loop who will make a comeback try with the Brooklyn Dodgers this year. Wes is shown at St. Petersburg, Fla.

High-Priced McCoy With A's

Benny McCoy

Here's Benny McCoy, the Philadelphia Athletics' high-priced infielder who got a $45,000 bonus plus a promise of $10,000 salary for signing with the A's after being made a free agent by Commissioner Landis. McCoy is shown at his Grandville, Mich., home with Earl Mack, vice president of the A's, after signing. He batted slightly over .300 with the Tigers in 55 games last year.

CASEY IS WINNER OVER PLUMMER

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 1—Steve (Crusher) Casey, Ireland's gift to the crushed bone brigade, won the feature wrestling match at the Arena last night, when his opponent, Lou Plummer, roughneck Texan was disqualified after 17 minutes.

The match had been waged on fairly even terms before Plummer reverted to off-color tactics. Lou was warned repeatedly about using foul means to torment his foe, but he persisted and thus lost the match. Plummer hurt Casey several times as he lifted his foe and kneed him on his trip to the canvas. The fans were in accord with the outcome, and they booed Plummer as he protested to the referee.

For action, the semi-windup between Dynamite Joe Cox, Missouri roughneck, and Lord Albert Mills, titled Canadian, stole the show. This pair staged a rousing tussle for 30 minutes, only to have the bell toll and the contest declared a draw. Cox, one of the better showmen in the game, really gave the fans their money's worth last night. Joe used most of the tricks in the trade to torment Mills. The latter exceeded the expectations of most of the gallery with his fine performance. Mills tossed the burly Missourian from the ring at least a half dozen times and experienced the same displeasure at Cox's hands.

Maurice LaChapelle, nimble Frenchman, and Angelo Savoldi, got the biggest hand of the night for their splendid performances in the third match, one of the cleanest seen here in some time. LaChapelle won the contest after 20 minutes with a series of flying mares. The fans gave the pair quite an ovation as they shook hands in the center of the ring following the fray.

Allan Eustance won the second match by pinning Ed Cook after 11 minutes, while the opener went to Tommy O'Toole, who tossed John Guduski, substitute for Sammy Stein.

In The Pocket

By
TATTTLER

After a rather hectic week your Tattler is here with a few remarks about the local bowlers.

Last week the Bristol Recreation gals won a nice verdict over the Salem lassies. These local misses surely don't have an apple when it comes to howling. "Hucky" and "Jean" both had nice 200 games.

Yours truly thinks that the American League is about the closest in competition of any that he has seen in a long time. That's the way we like them.

We think the luckiest man in these parts is Francis O'Boyle. "Just hit the head pin," he says. "Stuff on the ball does the rest. Last week, your Tattler informed you that he had an announcement to make.

Here it is:
Your Tenpin Tattler will present a medal to the bowler in the Bristol Bowling Association rolling the highest single game in League competition starting February 1st and ending March 31st. Good luck to you, boys.

Just sit tight folks and we'll again be with you with a few more timely topics next week.

BRISTOL HIGH QUINTET SUBMERGED BY N. J. S. D.

WEST TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 1—Unable to penetrate the impenetrable defense of the opposition, Bristol High's passers were submerged under a 39-16 lacing handed them by the New Jersey School for the Deaf quintet on the latter's floor here last night.

3 TEAMS TONIGHT WILL BATTLE FOR 2ND PLACE IN LEAGUE

Profy Five To Clash With The Falls Alumni Team

CORNWELLS - CROYDON

Manhattan Soap Team To Play Rohm & Haas Five

Three teams highly interested in second place in the Bristol Basketball League, will be seen in action tonight on the Italian Mutual Aid floor. The first of these teams, the Profy five, will clash with the Falls Alumni quintet, and after that tilt is over Manhattan Soap meets the Rohm & Haas team. In the Suburban League fracas, Cornwells meets Croydon.

At the present standing, Rohm & Haas is in second place by one-half game lead over both Manhattan and Profy. A defeat for the chemical workers tonight will drop them in the percentage table and if the Profy team is also victorious, the Maple Beach team will drop into fourth place.

The Rohm & Haas team lost a tough one to the Grundyites Monday night and will seek revenge at the expense of the soap workers. Monday night also saw the boys of Charlie Dugan swamp the Falls Alumni team and so this shapes up to be an interesting fight. Manager Dugan will start Hutnell, Gallagher, Joe Snyder, Mulligan, and Zeffries against the starting lineup of Rohm & Haas, which will be Cahall, Roe, Smith, Cole and Weideman.

Although it has not been playing up to standard, the Profy team is a slight favorite over the Falls boys who have been failing miserably in the circuit. Picked by most of the local fans as one of the clubs to finish in the playoff, the Alumni team has fallen by the wayside and although it has played some close games has only won four games during the season.

Fighting to stay out of the cellar, the King A. A. team of Cornwells will clash with the Croydon Y. M. A. in the loop while Croydon has two victories. A win for Cornwells will place them in sixth place.

First game gets under way at 7:15 o'clock.

that he remain, and through urging that he take up some form of sport. Applying for a berth on the wrestling team at the start of his second year, he finished college in due time, after being hailed as intercollegiate champion for two years, and being chosen president of the senior class. "That young man got to know himself and his co-students better, and college life was real to him. But the main thing was in mastering self."

The large number of youths who are making good on athletic teams, despite the fact they are handicapped financially, was spoken of. "They are lads who have aggressiveness. They are overcoming their handicaps, and are getting much from their college life beside actual book knowledge," Bristol high students were told.

To those with a leaning toward higher education the advice of Coach Sheridan was "Give of yourself. There isn't much you can't do if you are anxious enough. And whatever you give to your school and coach in the sporting line, you will get back ten-

Zale Down, but Beats Hostak

In a sensational upset, Tony Zale of Gary, Ind., pounded out a decision over Al Hostak, middleweight champion, in Chicago. Zale was down for a short count in the first round, as pictured, but got up to beat Hostak, a boy considered to be a "coming white hope."

You are better off as a candidate for a team than sitting in the bleachers. You get more out of athletic endeavors than you think. You learn to size up the other fellow, and can better analyze what qualities others have that will aid you in your life.

The development of self assurance through try-outs for sports teams, even through all the teams tried for are not made, was stressed. Mr. Sheridan assured the boys of low weights of the opportunities for them on the wrestling teams, then offered to the school if desired a demonstration by the Lehigh College wrestling squad.

Mr. Sheridan, who was introduced to the students by Jack Healey, president of the Student Council, began his coaching career in 1910 when he was appointed wrestling coach at the University of Pennsylvania. The following year, he went to Lehigh and has been primarily responsible for the Engineers winning the Eastern title so frequently. Three of his Lehigh boys represented the United States in the Olympic games: Jim Reed, now wrestling coach at Princeton, N. J., was a member of the American team in 1928 at Amsterdam; in 1936, Howell Scooby and Ben Bishop were Lehigh's entries at the Olympic at Berlin.

The assembly for next Wednesday, February 7th, at 1:30, was announced by John Melideo, chairman of the program committee of the Student Council. At that time John Quinn, an American League umpire, will be present to address the pupils, and the motion picture "Touching All Bases" will be shown.

TO STAGE FOX HUNT AT MORRISVILLE, SATURDAY

MORRISVILLE, Feb. 1—The Morrisville Fish & Game Protective Association will hold its first fox hunt of the year on Saturday, and will meet at the Community House at 8:30 a. m. The hunt will be in charge of Joe Davalla.

The Post Road trap range will be open on Sunday, February 4th, at 9:30, when Willard Keys and his committee will conduct another trap shoot. All events will be for members only.

The Game committee, in charge of William Reitzel, reports they are daily feeding the wild ducks on the Delaware river at Black Road every morning at seven o'clock.

There has been a large demand for tickets for the club's second annual banquet which will be held on February 12th. Tickets may be had at headquarters in the Community House or from A. K. Thornley and Allen Woolf.
